

5th Annual 2017
Bio-Abundant
 Farming Conference
 June 23-25

12510 Byron Highway
 Brentwood, California
 94513

Healthy Soil, Food, People

The Future of Farming

Join pioneering farmer, biochemical physicist, and organic soil engineer Rick Knoll on his 10 acres of state-of-the-art farming with permaculture that produces over 100 acres of food. See how stone fruits, herbs, greens, and bulbs can be so nutrient dense that each bite provides true immunization. Attend this year's farming conference and learn how soil & microbes grow living food that supports abundant life.

Experience:

- * How bees support food growth
- * Pro-microbial liquid soil
- * Importance of composting
- * Ground cover to save topsoil
- * Tasting delicious, living food
- * Meditation in the field

Join the Fun!

Enjoy the indoor and outdoor presentations, walks in the field, farm-fresh meals, and two movie nights. Stay at nearby hotels, or better yet, enjoy the full experience by camping in the orchards. Enjoy learning how to identify herbs and foods and their healing properties, about worms and water, and eating raw honey and tree ripe seasonal fruit.

What to Bring for Camping:

- * Tent
- * Pest repellent (citronella oil)
- * Towels
- * Flashlight
- * Bedroll or sleeping bag & pillow
- * Comfortable clothing, hat, and shoes for warm, sunny and semi humid climate with cool nights.

$225.00—per person

Meals, drinks, snacks, and materials included

(family rates available)

Call 714-669-0779
 for sign-up & info

Space is limited to 50 attendees

Program Hours -

Friday evening through
 Sunday afternoon

Friday - 5-9 pm
 Saturday - 8 am-9 pm
 Sunday - 9 am-1 pm